As lifespans continue to increase across the globe, countries must look to develop policies and structures that promote the active engagement and health of their aging populations. This three day summit draws aging experts from around the world for the cross-sector sharing of ideas among scientists, policy makers, and industry, to help countries prepare for the growth and opportunities of their aging populations.

Speakers include:

Opening Keynote

Babatunde Osotimehin
Executive Director, United Nations Population Fund and Under-Secretary-General, United Nations

Linda P. Fried
Dean, Columbia University, Mailman School of Public Health

John Beard
Director, WHO Department of Ageing and Life Course

Wen Chen
Dean, Fudan University, School of Public Health

Du Peng
Director, Institute of Gerontology, Renmin University

Yvonne Li
CEO, International China Ageing Industry Association

Dr. Shari Ling
Dep. Chief Medical Officer, Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services

David Chen
Vice President, Microsoft

Robert Xiao
CEO, Perfect World

Derek Yach
Sr. Vice President, Vitality Group

This conference is endorsed by numerous institutions, including the World Health Organization, the Chinese National Aging Office, the British National Health Service’s Depts. of Aging and Societal Care, the Vitality Institute, the China Research Center on Aging, the Shanghai Research Center on Aging, and the WHO’s Dept. of Ageing and Life Course.

Official program and website available January 2016

MSPHdeansoffice@cumc.columbia.edu