

Nancy Hogle, MPH '10

Term: 2014-Present

Nancy J. Hogle, BSN, RN, MS, MPH, CCRC is a registered professional nurse with vast experience spanning more than 25 years. Ms. Hogle's experience is concentrated in clinical practice and includes experience in academic medical centers in a variety of settings including an inpatient unit, the operating room, a single-surgeon practice, compliance and regulatory affairs, and multiple clinical research environments. She has 18 years of clinical research experience as a senior study coordinator and research manager at major academic medical centers.

Ms. Hogle was most recently employed as a manager in the Healthcare Advisory Services practice of Ernst & Young (EY). Prior to joining EY, Ms. Hogle served as a Senior Research Nurse at Columbia University, where she designed the research strategy for clinical and outcomes research and created and activated dashboard reports. She also served as the Director of Education and Research, Department of Surgery at Staten Island University Hospital, where she supervised and mentored all aspects of resident research and assisted with workflow analysis. Ms. Hogle is published in peer-reviewed journals (Surgical Endoscopy and Journal of Surgical Education).

She is a member of the Association of Clinical Research Professionals (ACRP), holds current Clinical Research Coordinator certification, and sits on the ACRP NY Metropolitan Chapter board of directors as treasurer. In her free time, Ms. Hogle is an avid quilter, enjoys working out at the gym regularly, and delights in spending time with her 9 nieces and nephews.